"The war being over and peace having been officially proclaimed by the President, leaves the compact between the States as it was-the bond of union the same as before—the obligations and reciprocal protections the same, and it now becomes the duty of the govern-ment to recognize the right of all the States in the Union, and not admit the treasonable idea of the party in power, that secession is a fixed fact, and that the States that were in rebellion should be held as foreign territory and not permit them to take part in the affairs of the government."
